

2017 Health Card Renewals

It's time to renew your health card.

Health card renewal packages are being mailed out this fall. Once your package arrives, please ensure that you update your card with your new sticker.

All Health Cards expire on December 31, 2017.
If your health card expires you could be billed for medical services. Avoid any hassles and contact us today:

On behalf of eHealth Saskatchewan (eHealth), the College is sending out this notice and a copy of their 2017 health card renewal poster as we all work together to update the Provider Registry System (PRS).

eHealth is asking medical professionals to print and hang the poster in their office where it will be visible to patients. It reminds residents to renew their health cards with the new sticker and to contact eHealth if they have any questions.

For most people in Saskatchewan, one of the most valuable cards in their wallet is being renewed this fall. That's why eHealth is mailing out health card renewal packages in September to all permanent Saskatchewan residents with provincial health coverage. The packages contain updated stickers that renew Health Cards for a three-year period to December 31, 2020. Provincial health cards expire on December 31, 2017.

eHealth is asking all health care providers and medical office assistants and administrators to please check the expiration date on the health card sticker, or printed directly on the card to ensure it is up-to-date. If patients have an out-of-date health card or sticker, they can be directed to contact eHealth if they do not receive their health card renewal package by late October. They can also get more information by visiting eHealth's website at: eHealthSask.ca.

Other ways residents can contact eHealth:

- Call: 1-800-667-7551 (available Monday through Friday from 8a.m. to 5p.m.)
- Email: change@eHealthSask.ca
- Visit eHealth Saskatchewan in person at 2130 11th Avenue in Regina (open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.)

To help ensure packages are received before health cards expire, any resident with a change of address or family composition (married, divorced, separated, deceased) within the last three years are asked to update that information with eHealth Saskatchewan.

Also, please note that some health cards have an alternate expiry date printed directly on the card. These patients do not require the renewal sticker and should contact eHealth before their card expires to get more information on renewing their health coverage.
